“ We only got to meet Joe a few times. We mostly knew him through his granddaughter, our daughter-in-law, Janine. But sometimes you can tell in a few moments that somebody is just extraordinarily personable, kind and downright likable, and that's how we immediately felt about Joe. Over the years, we saw how incredibly loved he was by his family -- Janine, his great-grandkids (our grandkids) -- and that spoke volumes, too, about his character. His was obviously a life well-lived--something we should all aspire to have said about us when our time here is over.
